Small Pox is a virus and is spread only person to person contact. Edward Jenner vaccinated his son in 1796 using Cowpox.

Small Pox ended in 1949 in the United States. George Washington had Small Pox when he was 19 and immunized his men in 1778.

It is said that Small Pox killed more men than the British.

Small Pox had a devastating effect on American Indians that resulted in westward expansion of the Europeans.
